LIFE

(NY12-Aug. 28) PRESIDENT DIEM MEETS WITH BUDDHISTS--South Viet Nam's President Ngo Dinh Diem receives a trio of Buddhist monks at the Gia Long palace in Saigon today. Two of the monks are fingering prayer beads. In the capital city mobile squads of Vietnamese soldiers roamed the city to prevent further suicides by fire by which Buddhist monks protested government action against their religion.
